Boat for Lake Tabeau.

The small boat constructed entirely of iron, and belonging to Lester Flagg and Vic Rocco, which has been kept at Silver Lake for the past six years, was brought down from the mountain resort last week, and is now in the machine shop of Garbarini Bros. on Water street. The boat was made exclusively by the owners, and adapted for rowing purposes only. It was used during the summer season by pleasure parties on the lake, and was in charge of the Masse Brothers during each summer. The boat is not over twelve feet long, and is fitted with two water-tight compartments, one at each end, so that it cannot possibly sink. Filled with water, it would still float. It is now intended to place it on lake Tabeau, the big reservoir of the Standard Electric Company near Clinton. It is to be furnished with a gasoline engine, and for this purpose it is now in the machine works. The engine will be of about two and half horse power, and a gallon of gasoline will operate it for seven or eight hours. Some one at the reservoir will have charge of it, and keep it under lock and key. It is not designed for hiring, but for free use on application by fishing parties and excursionists. It will certainly be a great attraction to that popular resort, available at all seasons of the year. At Silver Lake the season of freedom from winter's overcoat of ice was only about four months, but at Tabeau the water is always open.

Must Have His Leg Rebroken

Julius Podesta, who sustained a fracture of the leg by falling from one of the electric light poles upon coming in contact with a live wire over six months ago, and who has been able to get around on crutches for several months, started for San Francisco Tuesday morning for surgical treatment. He was accompanied by his mother and father, who will make arrangements for his reception in a hospital in the city. The object of this trip to San Francisco is to have the injured leg rebroken and reset. This course has been recommended by the doctors here, as the only one that will afford permanent relief. It seems that after the original operation in reducing the fracture, the limb was mending all right. About a month ago, while in the candy store on Main street, his crutches slipped, causing him a heavy fall. He paid little attention to it at the time, but a few days afterwards his leg began to pain him considerably. A thorough examination showed that the bone had been cracked or fractured anew, and that in order to get it to knit thoroughly it was necessary to be rebroken and reset. To this end he has gone to San Francisco.

Petition for Appointment of Game Warden.

A petition has been circulated, and numerously signed in the northern section of the county, requesting the supervisors to appoint a game warden for that section. Much complaint has been made on account of the shooting of doves out of season. It is reported that while the illegal killing of these birds is a matter of common talk, no effort has been made by the local officials to stop the practice. Hence, the shooting habit is communicated to others. One hunter thinks he has just as much right as another to violate the game law. A local game warden, who has to depend for his compensation upon the fines inflicted upon violators of the law, is thought to be the best method of stopping the unlawful killing of game.

Inspection Proof.

The photo's turned out by Logan's studio at No. 15 S San Joaquin street, Stockton, are certainly inspection proof. Logan has long had the reputation of turning out the classiest work of this kind, in the San Joaquin Valley. He is a born photographer and has had oceans of experience. All these things count when it comes down to actual workmanship. You remember that Solomon said that in this world "All was vanity." But that was before Logan's time. If he could have seen some of Logan's work he would have changed his ideas and sat for a photo himself.

Bitten by a Rattler

While at work last Tuesday in the brush around the copper mine near Forest Home, Frank Divocchio was bitten on the index finger of the right hand by a small rattlesnake, causing his arm to swell and pain him greatly. He came on to Jackson and went to Dr. Endicott, who attended the wound.

Apportionment of School Funds.

Jackson, Cal., July 15, 1908.
To the Boards of Trustees of Amador county.
Ladies and Gentlemen:—Following is a report of the second and last state apportionment for the school year ending June 30, 1908.
State Superintendent Edward Hyatt reports $8153.28 apportioned to the primary grammar schools of the county. To this sum I added $214.49, the unapportioned balance of state money.
Of this amount I have apportioned $8314.20 leaving a balance of $53.57 in the unapportioned state fund.

Robt. G. Aitken Lectures on Astronomy.

Robert G. Aitken, who was born and reared in Jackson, Amador county, and who has made a record as an astronomical student of world wide reputation at the Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton, delivered a lecture before the students of the Berkeley University last Friday. We are indebted to a correspondent for the following account of the lecture:
Doctor Robert G. Aitken, professor of astronomy at the Lick Observatory, delivered his initial lecture on astronomy before the students taking the summer course at the University of California, in Hearst Hall last Friday evening, July 10th. The seating capacity of the hall was taxed to its utmost, as Doctor Aitken has the reputation of being the most successful doublestar finder in the world, having so far located over 1700. The lecture was illustrated with many fine lantern slides, showing the different styles of refracting and reflecting telescopes, their adaption to photography and chemical analysis of the light with the spectroscope. For the latter purpose the light gathered by the large telescope passes through a slit 1-100 inch long by 1-1000 inch wide, then through three prisms and the lines of the spectrum thus produced is studied. The lecturer explained the vastness of our solar system and the infinite distance of the stars, the theory of sunspots, the course of the sun observed during total eclipse, nebulas and the probable formation of stars, dark stars and numerous other interesting astronomical facts. Doctor Aitken spoke rapidly for over an hour without notes, and the lecture though scientific was lucid and plain enough to be easily understood by any one whose early education had not been neglected. Doctor Aitken will disseminate some of the knowledge he acquired during years of observation by delivering several more lectures during the summer at the University of California, and no doubt will each time be greeted by a large audience.

Falling Off in School Attendance.

Superintendent of Schools W. H. Greenhalgh has just completed his annual report to the state controller, giving the complete statistics of schools of Amador county for the past year. It was inevitable, that inasmuch as the number of census children has fallen off in comparison with last year, and indeed for several years past, the average daily attendance of pupils in the public schools would also show a corresponding decline. The figures on this proposition are as follows:

1906-7—Average No. belonging 1421
Average daily attendance 1341
1907-8—Average No. belonging 1327
Average daily attendance 1231

Considering the total number of children, the attendance shows up exceedingly well, showing about 7 per cent of non-attendants for the past year against a trifle under that for the previous year. The schools are in an excellent shape in all other respects. The appointment of teachers for the ensuing year is being made, but many of the districts have not yet taken action in the selection of teachers. There are plenty of applicants in nearly all the districts. Some perplexity has been caused by teachers putting in applications in a number of districts. Of course this is done, so that the applicant, disappointed at one point, may still hope for employment at another. Still it is a source of much annoyance to the trustees, as under the circumstances they are not sure that the teacher who is preferred and selected may not be engaged elsewhere. This has actually happened in this county this year. A teacher was selected in a certain district, but the appointment turned down for the reason that a more desirable appointment had been obtained in another district.

Church Notes.

On Sunday July 19 services will be conducted at the Methodist church as follows: In the morning the pastor will preach a sermon to the boys and young people on "Some boys of the Bible," and in the evening on "A handsome young widow's choice." All are cordially invited to these services. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening.

I. O. O. F. Installation

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs held a joint installation last Saturday evening, the installing officers being Miss Maize Knapp of Oleta, for the Rebekahs, and Mr. Jones of Ione for the Odd Fellows. Those installed in the Rebekahs were Maud Vandament, noble grand; Luna Clark, vice noble grand; Annie Clark, recording secretary; Kate Langhorst, treasurer; Bertha Mounter, conductor; Annie Angove, warden; Albertine Parsons, outside guardian; Josephine Harvey, inside guardian; Drs. Gibbons and Maud Trelogan, respectively the right and left supporters to the noble grand; Lydia Pense and Emma Williams, right and left supporter to the vice noble grand, and Cynthia Avis, chaplain.

W. H. Kern, a well-known mining man of this city who had extensive interests at Michigan Bar, died at the latter place early yesterday morning as the result of injuries sustained late Sunday afternoon. Kern was working about his mine, when a great bank of gravel caved upon him, crushing him frightfully. He was extricated by his workmen, and physicians from this city were sent for, but they arrived too late to save his life.—Sac. Union, July 11.

K. of P. Confer Degree.

A large number of the members of Rathbone lodge K. of P. went from Jackson Monday evening to visit the sister lodge at Ione, to witness the ceremonies of the fourth degree. The county seat delegates required two double seated vehicles and a couple of buggies to convey them to and from the valley town. Those who went were Dr. Gall, Geo. W. Brown, Wm. Penry and Wm. Penry Jr., Dr. Endicott, F. W. Parker, Joe Ratto, Tom J. Burrows, Sam Harris and Emil Marcucci.

To Lane's Hospital.

Mrs. Tobias Hocking left Wednesday morning for San Francisco, with the intention of entering Lane's hospital for the purpose of undergoing a critical operation. She has been in poor health for a long time, although able to be around and attend to household duties. A surgical operation was the only hope held out for permanent relief. She was accompanied by Mrs. J. Chinn.

Furnished Rooms to let; inquire at Ledger office.

MINING NOTES.

Fremont.—At this mine it was expected that the full capacity of the mill would be in operation ere this. Early this week, however, twenty stamps—one-half the full capacity—were in motion. The shaft repairing at the 1050 station, in consequence of the damage done by the fire last fall, has proved a very formidable undertaking, involving much more time and expense than was anticipated. Practically a new shaft for a distance of 50 feet had to be created out of the vacant space caused by the caving of the walls. This was done by timbering, and filling in behind with timbers or rock. The work has been about completed, and it is expected to get the 40 stamps at work in a few days.

Central Eureka.—A number of men have been set to work straightening up around the mine and getting the machinery into running order. The shaft will need considerable repairing before the mine can be started full blast. When the mine was practically abandoned about six months ago, the pillars were taken out, so it will require a great deal of timbering to repair this. It will be some months before the mine will be operated with the number of men originally employed there. E. C. Voorheis is managing the proposition.

Mitchell.—This mine, located near Pine Grove, was bonded last month by John Crammer, and according to the terms of the agreement he was to have the mill running shortly. He has a few men at work, most of their time being spent in taking the water out of the shaft and getting the ten stamp mill in order. Mr. Crout of Nevada was at the mine this week looking over the property with the supposed idea of taking it over. He went to San Francisco Wednesday morning and expects to return within a week.

Rich Gravel.—The first of the week Santirfo and Griesback, who have been working under a lease the Grillo Bros. gravel mine near Volcano, struck an extraordinarily rich streak of pay dirt. This mine, called the French gravel mine, has been paying well for some time, but occasionally very rich dirt is encountered making the average pay to the foot much higher.

Bunker Hill.—The Bunker Hill Company declared dividend number 20 this week of 3 cents per share, making $6000 distributed among its stockholders. It has paid twenty monthly dividends in succession, aggregating nearly $120,000. The ore has averaged nearly $5.50 per ton, in cluding sulphurets, during the past five months. The outlook is favorable for a long continued era of dividends. Everything connected with the mine and mill is running with clockwork regularity and precision under able supervision of superintendent E. H. Harrington. Sinking operations are in progress from the 1850 level, and the shaft will be put down considerably lower. For a twenty stamp mill, the Bunker Hill in its record of 20 continuous monthly dividends is entitled to the banner among the present producing mines of California.

Apropos.—The Apropos Mining Company has just placed on record a deed from the Argonaut Mining Company of the land that adjoins the latter mine on the south and known as the Hoffman ranch, and on which the Apropos mining claim is located. The deed was executed by the order of the board of directors. The Mining Company is Apropos incorporated under the laws of the state of Arizona. It is reported that this is a preliminary step to the work of developing the mineral ground included in the Hoffman field.

Reappointed Trustee.

Governor Gillett has reappointed C. H. Dutton of El Dorado as trustee of the Preston school of industry at Ione, his term having expired. A move has been on foot to secure a change in the superintendency of the school, not because the management of W. T. Randall has not been satisfactory in every way, but because other aspirants were anxious to get the position. It is known that the present trustees are not in favor of making any change. The school has moved along very efficiently for several years. The inmates are doing fully as well as could be expected in an institution of that character, and altogether the school will compare favorably with reformatories of a like character in the older states. The trustees adhere to the safe path of keeping one who has proven a thorough and capable superintendent in charge of the school.

Boarman—Bryant Wedding.

The Call of Sunday last has the following account of the marriage of Miss Gertrude Boarman, a relative of Mrs E. H. Harrington and Miss Emma Boarman of this city. The bride is a daughter of Sylvester C. Boarman, who is a native of this town, but who for a number of years past has lived with his family in San Francisco:

Miss Gertrude Boarman, a well known college girl and a member of the Phi Alpha Kappa, was married to Oscar M. Bryant at Trinity church yesterday morning. The ceremony was performed by Dr. W. Hawkins. Miss Irene Boarman, sister of the bride, and Miss Vera Smith, a cousin, acted as bridesmaids, and Leon Schumacher was the best man. The bride is the daughter of S. C. Boarman of 4121 Twentieth street. The groom is cashier for the Johns-Mandel company. Following the ceremony the couple left on a honeymoon to last three weeks. The bride wore princess dove gray.

Party Gets Two Deer.

Wednesday being the first day of the opening of the deer and dove season, several parties went out in different directions that morning to hunt for the much desired game. The doves were so plentiful that the hunters found it no trouble at all to get the bag limit of twenty-five doves in an hour or a little more. One party composed of R. S. Rainsford of the Argonaut mine, Gus Leverone, Will Hess, Ed. Kay and Chiso Dal Porta struck out from here early that morning for Horton's ranch, which lies about seven or eight miles below here, on the Mokelumne river, meeting the Horton boys there and Jim and Mack Amick of Ione. During their hunt their dogs scared up fourteen deer of all sizes. Rainsford and Dal Porta were the lucky ones of the bunch and succeeded in getting one apiece. One of them was left with the Hortons to divide among those in the party from that section. Besides the deer each of the party got the limit of doves. They got back to town about nine o'clock that same evening.

FRIDAY JULY 10, 1908

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

The democratic national convention at Denver has presented W. J. Bryan for president, and John W. Kern of Indiana for vice-president for the suffrages of the people. The nomination of Bryan was a foregone conclusion. He has been the most prominent figure in the democratic party for the past twelve years—ever since he made his "cross of gold" speech before the convention of 1896, which stampeded the delegates to his standard and gave him the nomination that year. He has been a persistent rainbow-chaser ever since. Already twice defeated for the presidency, he bobs up serenely for the third attempt to reach the coveted goal. No doubt in his first candidacy the honor came to him spontaneously, without any self-seeking on his part. But since that time he has been badly afflicted with the presidential fever. He has been the dominating figure in the democratic party all these years. He is the only example in history of a man receiving the nomination for the presidency, after being twice defeated. Cleveland was nominated three times, but he scored a victory in his first and third candidacy. The Denver convention was more absolutely under the control of the man from Nebraska than any previous gathering. From beginning to end he dictated its every movement. The platform is of his own building, and attempts to please every class and every shade of opinion. It aims to catch the floating and independent votes. The union labor element is tickled with the promise of a change in the law so as to modify the power of the courts in the issuance of writs of injunction in cases involving labor disputes. This is done to capture the working classes. The definition of a platform as "a trap to catch votes," was never more applicable than in the present declaration of principles by the national democracy. Such a policy of anything to win stands a slim show of meeting with the approval of American citizens. We do not believe a majority of the union laborers want the laws twisted for their particular benefit. The principle of equality before the law is more sacred than the idea of special favors to any class. The attitude of democracy this year, when analyzed by the intelligent voter, should cause a revolt in the ranks of labor against the Bryan ticket. The triumph of such ideas promulgated in the name of democracy would prove a disaster to their interests instead of a blessing. A campaign of enthusiasm is not to be expected. Men do not enthuse over such crazy-patch politics. The enthusiasm will likely be confined to the opponents of this radicalism. The long-continued hurrahs for the third-time candidate in the convention hall fail to meet any answering echo from the masses. The outcome is fairly anticipated in the odds of two to one offered by the betting fraternity in favor of the election of Taft.

The nomination of John W. Kern, of Indiana, as the democratic candidate for vice-president, came as a surprise. It was a plain case of the advent of a dark horse. Nobody had previously heard of the man in connection with the presidential ticket. It was not because of a multiplicity of aspirants that the convention was forced to seek out the stranger. The men prominently mentioned had declined. Kern is an attorney of some note in Indiana. He ran for governor of that state, and suffered defeat at the hands of his republican competitor. Indiana is classed as a doubtful state politically. By this nomination it is hoped to swing the 15 electoral votes of that state into the democratic column. Both the candidates are from the middle west, and if state pride is sufficiently strong to carry both states—Nebraska and Indiana—they will add 23 votes to the solid south, which the democrats confidently calculate upon carrying as usual. The continuance of republican ascendancy is not seriously endangered by another tilt with Bryanism.

Republican citizens are urged to register at once. A new enrollment of voters is necessary for every general election, and no one is entitled to vote unless his name is on the list. Registration will close the latter part of September—almost before the campaign has fairly warmed up. Get registered now.

A Trying Moment.

Professor Leopold Schroetter was called to see the Crown Prince Frederick in 1887 before Sir Morrell Mackenzie had reached San Remo. The prince, evidently suspecting the worst, turned to Schroetter after the examination and said, "I request the truth as to my ailment." Schroetter hesitated and made an effort to direct the conversation in another direction, but Frederick insisted. "I am a soldier," he said, "and can look death in the eye. I ask you now plainly, to the point, is my complaint cancer?" Schroetter could hardly contain himself, and years after the scene when he recalled it he spoke of it as the most painful in his life. He conducted the crown prince to a chair and asked him to be seated. Then he said, "Your imperial highness, you are suffering from a serious complaint, and it is possible that it may develop into carcinoma, but that cannot be determined positively at this moment." Frederick became deathly pale, but never for a moment lost his self control and smiled grimly when he thanked the physician for his honesty.

Coming to an Understanding.

In the amiable way of villagers they were discussing the matrimonial affairs of a couple who, though recently wed, had begun to find the yoke of Hymen a burden.

"Tis all along o' these hasty marriages," opined one caustic old gentleman, who had been much to the fore in the discussion. "They did not understand each other. They'd nobbut knowned each other for a matter o' seven year."

"Well, that seems long enough," said an interested lady listener.

"Long eno'! Bah! Ye're wrong! When a body's courtin' he canna be too careful. Why, my courtship lasted a matter o' nineteen year!"

"You certainly were careful," agreed the lady listener. "And did you find your plan successful when you married?"

"Ye jump to conclusions," said the old man impatiently. "I understood her then, so I didna marry her!"—St. James' Gazette.

Poor Comfort.

Apropos of the pretensions of those who might be counted as in society, Mrs. Bloomfield Moore in her book on "Sensible Etiquette" tells the following story:

A snobbish young man and his sister after their return home from an evening party were criticising the company, quite unaware that their sensible old uncle was lying awake in his chamber and could hear every word from where they stood in the corridor.

"Why, even the Grinders were there, and you know their father was a grocer. I was never in such a mixed company," said the sister.

"And we will never be again if I can help it," answered the brother.

The uncle called out: "Children! what do you think your grandfather was? He was a bootmaker, and some people say not a very honest one either. Now go to bed."

Cramp Rings.

Formerly it was customary for kings of England on Good Friday to hallow certain rings, the wearing of which prevented cramp or epilepsy. They were made from the metal of decayed coffins and consecrated with an elaborate ceremony, some details of which are still preserved. They were "highly recommended by the medical profession" about 1557, for Andrew Boorde in his "Breviary of Health," speaking of cramp says, "The kynges majestie hath a great helpe in this matter in hallowing crampe ringes without money or petition." Occasionally cramp rings played a persuasive part in diplomacy. Lord Berners, our ambassador at the court of Charles V., wrote in 1508 "to my lord cardinal's grace" for some "crampe ryngs," with trust to "bestowe them well, by God's grace."—Westminster Gazette.

Persian Burials.

In Persia two sticks a foot long are placed in the coffin to prop up the arms of the corpse when it rises from the grave and is being questioned by the angel Gabriel. After it has satisfied the angel that it is the body of a true Mussulman it will receive strength to stand alone. A glance from a dog is necessary to drive away the spirit of defilement, and for this purpose a street cur is brought into the room of death and its eyes led to the corpse by a tempting bit of bread laid on the still breast.

Restlessness.

Mere restlessness is not a matter for which physicians are often consulted. It is on the face of it an unimportant malady, but when it exists in sufficient intensity to form the subject of complaint and to induce the sufferer to seek advice it is usually found to be the superficial indication of a grave underlying condition.—Hospital.

Amador County. Descriptive Article

Amador county comprises an area of 48 square miles. It lies on the western slope of Sierra Nevada mountains, and embraces within its territory all the diversity of valley, foothill, and high mountainous lands.

Climate.—The climate of the populous portions of the county is as genial and healthful as can be found anywhere in California. As climate is one of the most valuable assets of this favored state in attracting population, Amador stands second to no county in this regard. It should, and no doubt will in time, when its climatic advantages are more thoroughly understood and appreciated, become a health resort not only for those in less favored states, but for the residents of other parts of California. The temperature alone the central portion rarely falls below 30 degrees above zero in winter, and as rarely rises to 100 degrees in the summer. Snow seldom falls in the settled districts, and never remains on the ground for more than a few hours. Of course, in the high mountain regions of eastern Amador the snowfall is very heavy—which is characteristic of the entire Sierra Nevada range. The summer season is always accompanied with cool nights; permitting of sound, refreshing slumber. Fogs are rare, cyclones are unknown, thunderstorms are infrequent.

Gold Mining.—The county, although rich in other sources of wealth, comparatively untouched, is noted principally for her quartz mines. The deepest gold mines in America are located here. The Kennedy mine is now taking gold in liberal quantities from quartz extracted from a depth of over 3000 feet below the surface, with every indication that the pay-ore extends to a much greater depth. Since the discovery of gold, the county has contributed fully $100,000,000 to the world's supply of the precious metal. The mines are still yielding at the rate of about two million dollars annually. Nearly all of this wealth is produced by eight or ten mines operating on what is called the "mother lode," stretching clear across the county in a north-easterly direction a distance of twenty miles. The mines aggregate between 400 and 500 stamps, and furnish employment for over 1000 miners. This industry is still in its infancy. The unexplored territory, even along the main gold belt, is far in excess of the ground that has actually been worked or prospected. The county offers to-day one of the most inviting fields to be found anywhere in the world for the investment of capital in the fascinating business of gold mining, not alone along the mother lode, but also in the almost untouched mineralized country of the east belt, some ten or twelve miles from the main lode.

Besides gold, we have copper, deposits of pottery, coal, marble, slate, limestone, granite, and soapstone or talc—all undeveloped.

Agricultural Capabilities.—The agricultural possibilities equal, if not excel, the mineral riches. The valley lands will produce anything that can be grown in the most favored sections. In the foothill lands all kinds of deciduous fruits thrive; also all kinds of vegetable are raised where irrigation is available. Along the numerous water courses, grapes are raised up in the mountains, 2000 to 2500 feet, the vines adapted for apples. A ready market for these commodities can be found in the various mining towns.

Grape culture and winemaking are becoming important industries, both the grapes and wine commanding a better price than the product of the lowland.

Land is cheap compared with other California lands. Improved farms may be secured for one-fourth the price current in some places. Unimproved lands can be had from $5 to $10 per acre. It does not require a fortune to buy a small ranch. There is room for a large addition to our agricultural population. Vast tracts now devoted to cattle ranges might be made the homes of hundreds of prosperous farmers.

Amador has a population of less than 12000. Three fourths of this is concentrated in a strip of three miles above and below the mineral belt.

Jackson, the county seat, has about 2500 inhabitants, and is an incorporated city of the sixth class. Other towns are Sutter Creek, Amador City, Drytown, Plymouth, Volcano, Pine Grove and Oleta. Ione City is the metropolis of the valley section, a thriving town of 1000 inhabitants.

The community is law-abiding. Educational facilities are excellent. A schoolhouse is within easy reach of nearly every family. There is one high school, located at Ione.

The assessment roll for 1907 is $5,500,793, and the tax rate for both state and county purposes $2 on the $100.

The Southern Pacific has a branch railroad running to Ione. From this point the Ione and Eastern railroad extends 14 miles further to the mining section.

The various religious denominations and fraternal organizations are well represented.

The power plant of the Standard Electric Co.—one of the largest in the world—located four miles from Jackson.

THE HUMAN TONGUE.

It Is Very Inquisitive, With a Strong Will of Its Own.

The curiosity of the tongue does not cause the human being so much trouble as the curiosity of the eye, but the tongue, within its limits, is the most curious of all.

Let the dentist make a change in the month, let him remove a tooth or replace with his admirable artifice one that has long been absent, let him change the form of a tooth by rounding off a corner or building up a cavity, and see what the tongue will do. It will search out that place, taking careful and minute account of the change. Then it will linger near the place. If it is called to other duties, it comes back as soon as they are discharged and feels the changed place all over again, as if it had not explored and rummaged there already.

It makes no difference that these repeated investigations presently cause annoyance to its supposed master, the man. The tongue in nothing more than in this matter proves that it is an unruly member and will not be controlled.

It seems to have an original will and consciousness of its own, and nothing will serve it except the fullest satisfaction of its curiosity. It will wear itself out, perhaps, but it will find out all about the strange change. —Boston Transcript.

CANES IN SPAIN.

Some of the Natives Have a Small Arsenal of Them.

Every Spaniard has a stick, the well to do own several, and the "gilded youth" often has a small arsenal of them. The term arsenal in this case is used positively and not figuratively, as the Porto Ricans, like the Spaniards, have quite a craze for sword canes and dagger canes, and they make these with remarkable skill.

The blades of the finer specimens come from famous smiths in Toledo and other Spanish cities and are forged from the finest steel. Some are damascened and others are inlaid with silver and gold, some have worked upon them the name of the owner and others the name of a patron saint. The assortment of walking sticks in the shops in the larger towns is very varied.

They have fashions in sticks and canes suited to different ages and professions. There are sedate mahogany, ebony and rosewood sticks for clergymen and physicians and fanciful bamboos with gleaming steel inside for men about town. There are rough oak sticks for the Spanish Anglomaniacs and saucy little staves for those who ape the styles of the boulevard. For travelers there are coffee sticks, thorns, tea sticks, leopard wood canes and orange sticks. —London Chronicle.

Funerals in Peru.

According to social usage, women in Peru cannot attend funerals, and they do not appear at weddings unless they are very intimate friends. When a funeral procession passes through the streets the coffin is carried upon the shoulders of the pallbearers, who are followed by an empty hearse drawn by two, four or six horses, according to the means of the mourners and their desire for display. All the male members of the family and friends of the deceased follow on foot, with a line of empty carriages behind them. As long as they are in the presence of the dead it is considered a proper and necessary evidence of respect to walk. After the body has been committed to the grave those who attend the funeral are brought home in carriages.

He Followed the Water.

"Could you do something for a poor old sailor?" asked a wanderer at the rear door of a suburban house one morning recently.

"Poor old sailor!" echoed the housewife, who had opened the door.

"Yes'm. I followed the water for twenty years."

"Well," said the lady as she slammed the door in the face of her unwelcome visitor, "all I've got to say is you certainly don't look as though you had ever caught it." —London Answers.

"Alexandria, Egypt."

All correspondents with Egypt in all parts of the world should be warned that it is necessary to put the word "Egypt" on all communications addressed to Alexandria, as a great deal of trouble and annoyance has been caused owing to communications addressed to the Egyptian city being delivered to Scotland, Canada, New South Wales, Cape Colony, Italy, the United States of America and other countries where towns of the same name exist. —Egyptian Gazette, Alexandria.

The Berliner.

On the theory that might goes before right the Berliner fights his way past old ladies and tired women into crowded tram cars and ruthlessly jostles from his path the passerby in the streets with an obstinate insolence that goads the visitor accustomed to the higher civilization of other capitals to impotent fury. —Berlin Cor. London Outlook.

A Good Carriage.

Never neglect to go through some daily exercises which will keep the muscles in order, the head erect, the shoulders well thrown back. Carriage stands up in good stead even in old age.

Not Particular as to Weapons.

The waiter girl knew a thing or two about table etiquette, so she sniffed scornfully as she said, "It's not our custom to serve a knife with pie."

"No?" remarked the patron in surprise. "Then bring me an ax."

Wills in England.

Wills are a comparatively modern luxury. At one time a worthy household had no occasion to avail himself of the services of a solicitor. It was sufficient for all practical purposes if, when he felt his end approaching, he sat up in bed and clearly stated by word of mouth and before two reputable witnesses what he wished to be done with his personal possessions. The witnesses were expected to see that his desires were duly carried into effect.

Later on, if a man wrote his will entirely in his own handwriting, there was no necessity for him to bother about signing it, much less getting it witnessed. It was a valid document without these formalities.

Afterward it was deemed desirable that it should be signed. For a long time subsequently, however, witnesses were still considered superfluous, provided that the body of the will was in the testator's handwriting. Now, of course, witnesses are essential. There must be at least two, who must see the will properly executed. But any man making his will can have as many witnesses above two as he likes, if he thinks them necessary.

In the case of a soldier or a sailor in the navy on active service the law does not require so much formality as from a mere civilian safe and snug at home. If by word of mouth only it is valid as regards personal property thinks them necessary.

A will written in shorthand and duly signed and witnessed has been held to be valid. A will may be written on anything, from a postcard to a portion of a tree stump, provided it is legible and in proper form.

A man's will is nowadays revoked or annulled if he gets married after making it. At one time his will was revoked, not only when he got married, but whenever a new baby arrived in the family. This was in order that each new arrival should have fair play and be given at least a chance of being mentioned in his or her father's final dispositions.

In the days of Henry VIII, a man had no right to dispose of his personal property—that is, his money and movables—just as he pleased. If he left a widow and children, half his property, at least had to be divided among them, no matter whether he liked it or not. If he left a widow only, or only children, then the widow or the children had a right to a third of his goods.

Human Electricity.

Nobody knows anything really definite about electricity. Nobody has ever seen it, except as manifested in the electric light, or the lightning or as it is exhibited in the force that it is capable of creating. It is the great unseen power, though we know little about it. We know something of the force of the energy that it can create and in the mechanical world scientists have learned how to make electricity. They have learned how to store this mysterious power. They have "harnessed" it and are using it everywhere with vast benefit to mankind; but little, however, is known of what might be termed "human electricity." We often hear the term human magnetism, and there must unquestionably be a close relationship between what we term human magnetism and human electricity. They are probably one and the same thing, because in nearly all instances one who possesses a large amount of human magnetism is strong and well built, and this indicates beyond all possible doubt the possession of a large amount of energy, which can not be acquired unless the storehouse of human force—the nerve centers—is richly supplied with electricity. —Physical Culture.

ACT QUICKLY.

Delay Has Been Dangerous in Jackson.

Do the right thing at the right time.

Act quickly in times of danger.

Backache is kidney danger.

Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly.

Cure all distressing, dangerous kidney pills.

Plenty of evidence to prove this. Mrs. J. McNeill, living at 302 N. Main street, Stockton, Cal., says: "My husband used Doan's Kidney Pills and received great benefit from their use. Before he commenced using them he was greatly run down from kidney disease and suffered from backache and a weakness across his hips and loins. He would get up feeling stiff and lame in the morning, and had great difficulty in putting on his clothing. His kidneys were irregular in action and gave him great annoyance. He was in this condition when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to his attention, and he procured a box. He got relief in a short time, continued taking them and in less than a month was feeling like a new man. He has had no return of the trouble since and recommends Doan's Kidney Pills very highly."

Plenty more proof like this from Jackson people. Call at the City Pharmacy and ask what customers report.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and taken no other.

London 1734.

In 1734 M. La Combe published a book entitled "A Picture of London," in which, inter alia, he says, "The highroads thirty or forty miles round London are filled with armed highwaymen and footpads." This was then pretty true, though the expression "filled" is somewhat of an exaggeration. The medical student of fifty or more years ago seems to have been anticipated in 1734, for M. La Combe tells us that "the brass knockers of doors, which cost from 12 shillings to 15 shillings, are stolen at night if the maid forgets to unscrew them," a precaution which seems to have gone out of fashion.

M. La Combe in another part of his book exclaims: "How are you changed, Londoners! Your women are become bold, imperious and expensive. Bankrupts and beggars, colliers, spies and informers, robbers and pickpockets abound. The baker mixes alum in his bread. The brewer puts opium and copper filling in his beer. The milk-woman spoils her milk with snails."

The Blood Red Banner.

Royal and national colors vary with nations and times, but since Cain slew Abel blood red has been the sign of revolt. In the earliest revolt known to history, when the Persians rose against their king 4,000 years ago, they were led by a blood red banner, and during the riots which took place in Paris the men in the blood red caps were followed by the mob. A blood red flag waved over Bunker Hill when the Americans fought for liberty, and it was the emblem of the German peasants in their great uprisings in 1424, 1492 and 1525. Blood red was the color of the trades union flags during the middle ages, and it framed the background of the emblem of the Swiss confederacy in 1315. Through the whole of French and every other national history those striking in their own ways for liberty have worn the blood red cap and hailed the blood red banner as their leader. It is a curious fact that never has a monarch chosen it as his color. —London Answers.

Naive Lying.

A police official of New York, discussing the case of a policeman found guilty of protecting gambling houses, said:

"The man lied too naively in defense of his innocence. He was like a carpenter employed by a newspaper friend of mine. My newspaper friend writes a good deal at home, and his study being next to the nursery, the children's noise disturbed him, and he employed a carpenter to make the wall sound proof between the two rooms. 'I'll fix it all right,' said the carpenter confidently. 'The best thing to do will be to line it with shavings.' He completed his job, then he called the literary man in. 'She's sound proof all right now,' he said. 'We'll test her,' said the literary man. 'You stay here.' And, going into the nursery, he called to the carpenter in the study, 'Can you hear me?' 'No, sir; I can't,' was the prompt reply." —New York Tribune.

Was Entitled to Trouble.

Lord Palmerston and Sir J. Paget, who told the story, were walking down Bond street. A man came up and saluted the statesman.

"How do you do, Lord Palmerston?" "Ah, how do? Glad to see you. How's the old complaint?"

The stranger's face clouded over, and he shook his head. "No better."

"Dear me! So sorry! Glad to have met you. Goodbye."

"Who's your friend?" asked Sir James when the stranger had gone.

"No idea."

"Why, you asked him about his old complaint?"

"Pooh, pooh!" replied the other unconcernedly. "The old fellow's well over sixty; bound to have something the matter with him." —London Globe.

The Archbishop Won.

Dr. Whately, some time archbishop of Dublin, once had an encounter with a young aid-de-camp, and the prime minister emerged victor. At dinner the soldier asked this singular question, "Does your grace know the difference between an archbishop and an ass?" "Sir, I do not," answered Dr. Whately. "One wears the cross on his mitre and the other wears it on his back!" explained the tactless officer. "Do you know the difference between an aid-de-camp and an ass?" asked the archbishop calmly in return. "No, your grace, I do not," was the reply. "Neither do I!" said his grace. —Liverpool Mercury.

Gresley's Writing.

During the early part of the nineteenth century the bad writing of great men became almost a byword. In fact, poor writing was considered by some people as almost a sign of genius. Horace Greeley was such a poor writer that his correspondents were sometimes obliged to guess at his meaning. It is related that a reporter on the New York Tribune who received a letter from Greeley discharging him presented it as a letter of recommendation to the editor of another paper.

THE DUCKING STOOL.

How a "Scold" Used to Be Punished in Old England.

It is interesting to conjure up a picture of a "ducking" as practiced in England at the end of the eighteenth century.

When the "scold" had been properly tried and convicted, she was escorted by a crowd of her neighbors—in fact, by the whole village—to the nearest pond, and the greener and slimmer the pond the better. A long plank was produced, at one end of which was the ducking stool, and in this the screaming, struggling victim was securely pinioned.

The chair end of the plank was then pushed far over the edge of the pond, and at a signal it was tilted deep into the green ooze until the scold was completely immersed.

When the dripping, half drowned woman was raised to the surface again to the jeers and laughter of the on-lookers it can be imagined that her tongue wagged to some purpose. After a second dose she emerged more subdued, and after a third or fourth she was as penitent a woman as the village contained and was allowed to proceed home a sadder and wiser woman until the next time. —London Tit-Bits.

DEFIED THE JUDGE.

A Fine For Voting That Susan B. Anthony Never Paid.

"It has been so many years ago that most people have forgotten that the late Susan B. Anthony was fined $100 or a year's imprisonment for having dared to vote for General Grant for president," said a Chicago judge.

"Miss Anthony was as brave as she was intellectual and asked to be allowed to speak a word in her own behalf. Permission being given, she told the court of the struggle she had in keeping a little newspaper going from which she made her living. 'Your honor,' she said, holding up her right hand, 'I am due my creditors not less than $1,000. This money I expect, to live to pay, but I am willing this arm shall wither from my body before I pay the $100 you have so unjustly assessed against me.'

"The court realized the deep seriousness of Miss Anthony's declaration, and though she could have been ordered to jail for nonpayment of the fine his honor did not have the nerve to enforce the extreme penalty. Miss Anthony lived for many years after its imposition, but the fine was never paid." —Baltimore American.

Cobra's Fatal Bite.

One of the deadliest snakes in India is the cobra, which claims hundreds of victims every year. An English official once saw one bite a fowl, and, being curious to learn how long the venom took to act, he timed it with his watch. The moment the cock was touched it screamed, but at once ran off to its mates and began picking as if nothing were wrong. In thirty seconds the comb and wattles changed from red to black. In two minutes it began to stagger and fell down in convulsions, struggling violently until it died, three minutes and a half after it had been bitten. On plucking the fowl a wound not bigger than a pin prick was found at the extreme end of the wing. Round this spot the color was very dark, but the rest of the bird's body, excepting comb and wattles, was of a natural color.

The Bribe That Failed.

Among Father Dempsey's steady boarders was a fellow named Delaney. He was drunk as often as he could get that way. Father Dempsey tried all manner of means to get Delaney to quit drinking. At last he said to him:

"Delaney, my man, if you'll stop drinking for six months I'll give you a check at the end of that time for $50."

"Indeed, if I stopped for six months I could write you a check for $100," answered Delaney, and Father Dempsey in telling of it later added:

"And indeed he could, too, for he's a No. 1 mechanic." —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Rapid Rhymer.

In illustration of the working powers of George R. Sims, the dramatist and poet, it is said that one night a new piece was produced at a leading theater in London. Sims sat it out and then returned to his office, where he wrote a column and a half of criticism in rhyme. It was near the time for the paper to go to press when he began, and the boy took the piece verse by verse from him to the composing room, the boy walking continuously from one to the other for an hour.

A Hint to the Old Man.

"I do, sir," with emotion, "and I hope she inherits those qualities from her father."

The Glorious Old Fourth

At the Mary Mine, Nev.

Blair, July 6, 1908.

Editor Ledger:—Believing that a line from this place would perhaps interest some of the readers of the Ledger. Hence, a few lines, how some of the boys celebrated the glorious fourth at the great Mary mine, at an altitude of nearly seven thousand feet on the side of the mountain. First came the cannonading at 3 o'clock a. m. sharp, which made the old mountain tremble, even the old crater, which has stood in the valley for untold years seemed to feel the effect thereof. Horned toads, scampered away, the old rattler squirmed and wiggled to get away from the thundering noise. Then came a lull until all had breakfast. Then the stars and stripes were furled to the breeze on the handsome flag pole placed on the new compressor building. "The Star Spangled Banner," was then sung by the glee club in a most charming manner, after which came the introduction of General Budweiser from St. Louis, who had a special car. The car was carefully run into the month of the tunnel, where the Budweisers were allowed to thoroughly cool off. Then came the charge, and in a few hours the Buds were no more. Foot racing, hurdle jumping, tight rope walking, avvil chorus and many other attractions.

The Mary mine base ball nine played against the Blairs and were defeated by a few tallies. The glare of the great salt marsh, which seems like a big mirror, was too much for their eyes, but they came home fully determined to do more effective work in the future. Many times during the day you could hear some one say, "if we only had one of John Raddatz's setams," they meant kegs of course. The evening was spent very pleasantly in short steps, rag time, etc. So passed another Fourth.

The Recovery of D. J. Murphy of Chico is Remarkable.

Chico, Cal., June 26.—To Whom It May Concern: I hereby state that Dr. T. W. Hing, Chinese doctor, 725 J street, Sacramento, has fully restored me to health after suffering for four years from ulcer of the stomach. I consulted the best doctors in San Francisco, being under their care for three years without any improvement. I was advised to undergo a surgical operation when I accidentally heard of Dr. Hing, and after six months' treatment am fully restored to health. After a lapse of six months I have had no return of my trouble. I am pleased to recommend him to all sufferers of stomach trouble.

AUKUM.

July 14.—Your correspondent for the last four weeks has been up among the fish and rattlesnakes. Amid the towering shapely fir that raises its head far heavenward and nods it amid the evening zephyrs that play deftly with the tasselled tufts that adorn its summit, where too that beauty of the Pacific coast, the sugar pine stands giant like amid the forest with its long drooping limbs hanging umbrella shape downward, and giving it a very noticeable appearance, where the maple with its broad green saucer like leaves ripple by the gushing evening breeze that plays among its branches with trickling streams of pure clear water many times gurgling at its roots. Where the ozone that deals out the life giving element to the weak-lunged mortal that comes to receive it, where too, one can get a pure ice cold drink of water that the nymphs of Nyiad might glory to sport in.

Gil Cabarubia is the champion dreamer and rattlesnake fender of the season, so far as I have heard. One morning after getting up he said to myself and two others, "I had a fierce dream last night, I dreamed no matter where I went I would find rattlesnakes." "O nonsense," said one of the party, "there is nothing in dreams." But strange as it may seem, it was perfectly verified. From that day and for six, no matter where he went he found a rattlesnake and killed it, and showed us the snakes after he had killed them. The strange part of it, myself and two others going hither and thither saw no snakes, but what he had killed. We tramped in the woods, too, probably more than he did. "There is nothing in dreams," we hear it said, but if you will turn, Marconi-like, and reason from cause to effect you might meet with developments that would astonish you. These old fogey women that threw cloaks over their heads to prevent the sunlight of reason entering, are not the class of mentality for actual development. There is certainly a language in dreams that is yet to be developed. Had Edison announced to the public that he was going to invent an instrument that would reproduce the human voice perfectly, they would have laughed with derision at his assertion, but now he has forced them on to the stand and they must believe.

The Caldor saw mill is turning out a good deal of lumber daily. So far they send two lumber trains from the mill per day. Two serious accidents occurred there in the logging camp on Saturday the 11th. By some means one of the cables that roll the logs on to the cars caught and threw the log off, which struck a man on the leg and broke it badly. Shepard, the woods boss, told one of the train men to go and get a stretcher to put the man on, and he (Shepard) would couple the cars in his stead. The coupling are the old original link and pin, and a man to couple them must go between the cars. By some means Shepard was caught and crushed considerably and one of his legs broken.

I see that the new bridge over the south fork of the Cosumnes, on the road from Plymouth to Aukum, is now being put in by the contractors. It will give ease to some who contemplated a trip across in aerolite or a balloon when the swollen waters come.

A Test Shipment

This week the teams of Mr Swift commenced hauling of 500 tons of limestone from the Bonham quarry at Mount Echo to the lone depot for transportation to the sugar refinery near Salinas City in Monterey county. This shipment is for the purpose of making a practical test of the limestone of this quarry in the refining of sugar. Should it prove satisfactory, it will mean the development of an important industry in the export of limestone. The mineral has stood every test so far by experts. It has been pronounced equal to any in the state. Negotiations have been in progress for some months, and an agreement entered into for taking several carloads a week, aggregating thousands of tons in the course of a year, providing the stone in actual working comes up to expectations. W. H. Greenhalgh has conducted the negotiations at this end of the line, and entertains strong hopes that they will be carried to a complete success. There are vast beds of limestone of the finest quality between Sutter Creek and Ione. Sooner or later this source of wealth is bound to become marketable.

Pioneer Woman Goes to Rest

Mrs Jeannette Barrett, a pioneer woman of this city, died last Saturday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs P. E. Platt. Mrs Barrett was a native of Ohio, and was 89 years old. She was the widow of Thornton Barrett, who died in 1869. Four sons and three daughters survive her. They are T. H. Barrett of Amador county, M. K. Barrett of Gold Center, Nev., J. W. Barrett of Stockton, Dr. C. G. Barrett, Mrs P. E. Platt, Elizabeth and Mary M. Barrett of this city. Mr and Mrs Barrett crossed the plains from their Ohio home in 1862, coming in ox teams, and settled in Amador county, where they remained for a few years.—Sacramento Union.

Deceased was the mother of T. H. Barrett, who has lived near Pine Grove for a number of years, and grandmother of A. C. Barrett, for several years steward of the county hospital, but now a resident of Humboldt county; also grandmother of T. H. Barrett employed at the Kennedy mine.

Trustees Elect Officers

The school trustees of Jackson district met Monday evening and elected the teachers for the ensuing term. They are J. S. Wylie, who will act as principal, Miss Gartin, Miss McLaughlin, Miss Gritton, Miss Badaracco, Miss Bernecich, Mrs Caldwell and Miss Amy Clark. None of the teachers have been assigned to their classes though it is understood that Miss Amy Clark, having just received her certificate, will be assigned to the Kennedy school. The board intends to make it a practice to have only experienced teachers in the main school. John K. Huberty was re-elected clerk of the board. Jos. Vigna was reappointed janitor of the school. On account of two holidays coming the first part of September, the board decided that it would be better to open the schools on the 14th of the month. The sewer pipe to the schoolhouse has been finished, but there has been some delay in having the plumbing done. The board has given the contractors a few days more time in which to file their bids. An effort has been made to secure a lot adjoining the school yard, but the owner and the trustees could not agree on the price to be paid for it, they thinking that the amount wanted is much too high. If it could be secured the lot would be graded off and thrown open as part of the children's play ground.

The old bulldog belonging to John Chinn, which has held championship as the fighting boss of the canine fraternity in this burg for more than a dozen years past, was killed by his owner on Monday evening. He was known as George Washington. Why he was so named we know not. He was not disposed to war; was peaceably inclined, and as docile as could be desired by a pet dog, notwithstanding his ferocious bulldog look. But when in action in defense of his premises or in self-defense, he was the terror of all comers. He was fifteen years of age, and worn down so as to be unable to look out for himself. Hence he had to be destroyed.

Albert Endicott, who has a drug business in Oakdale, came up from that place Tuesday to visit with his brother, Dr. Endicott. He expects to spend his time while here in hunting doves, which are very plentiful in this vicinity.

P. Guerard has been confined to his home for the last week with sickness.

Mrs Albert Hosmer, who has been visiting here for a short time, left Wednesday with Mrs Rust for Berkeley. In a few days she will return to New York, where she is one of the leading characters in the great play of "The Man of the Hour."

The Jackson dramatic club are preparing to give a performance early next month for the benefit of the Methodist ministers' salary fund. The drama selected is "The Pet of Parson's Ranch."

Installation of Officers.

Tuesday evening the newly elected officers of Ursula Parlor No. 1 Native Daughters were installed, the team from Sutter Creek performing the ritualistic work under the direction of Mrs Speranza Malatesta D. D. G. P. Each member had been allowed to invite one of her friends, so that a large number of guests were present during the installation. The newly elected officers are Adalina Burgio, past president; Annie Angove, president; Mae Rose, first vice president; Annie Hurst, second vice president; Margaret Kirkwood, third vice president; Emma F. Boarman, recording secretary; Lena Podesta, financial secretary; Dooley Sanguinetti, treasurer; Lena Glavinich, marshal; Henrietta O'Neill and Kate Smallfield, trustees; Bertha Lucot, inside sentinel; Rose Carley, outside sentinel; Alma Francis, organist. After the several officers had been instructed in their duties, the following program was enjoyed by every one: Chorus, glee club; recitation, Mrs Alice Jones; song and fancy dances, Misses Axelrod; instrumental selection, Miss Grace Sutherland; reading, Miss Emma Boarman; vocal solo, Miss Minnie Axelrod, assisted by Master Jerome Glukfeld; vocal solo, Miss Norma Smith; instrumental duet, Idalee and Henrietta O'Neill; vocal solo, Miss Axelrod; remarks from the newly elected president and different members and visitors. Refreshments were served in the banquet room, after which the room was cleared for dancing.

To Lower Library Fund.

W. H. Greenhalgh has written to the boards of trustees of the various school districts to express their opinion as to lowering the apportionment of the moneys to the library fund from ten per cent to five. A great many of the districts have a great many books all in good shape, and a large balance in the library fund. Since this money can be used for nothing but books and library apparatus, the funds in some of the districts, especially in the smaller ones, are too large for ordinary expenses. The five per cent taken from the library fund will be placed in the general fund and used for teachers' salaries and contingent expenses.

Married in Sacramento

Earl Liversedge, son of William Liversedge of Pine Grove, was married in Sacramento last Wednesday to Miss Sophia Williams, an estimable young lady of Amador City. The groom is a young man of sterling character, and well known in the eastern part of the county. For the past year he has been employed at the Mary mine at Blair, Nevada, where he holds the position of underground foreman. The newly-wedded pair will make their home in that camp. The many friends of the contracting parties extend hearty good wishes for their future happiness.

N. S. G. W. Installation.

The Native Sons installed their officers Wednesday evening. Those installed were Dr. Wilson, past president; L. J. Glavinovich, president; Robert L. Kerr, first vice; Lee Kerfoot, second vice; Frank Perenza, third vice; Joe Garbarini, marshal; John K. Huberty, recording secretary; Wm. Going, financial secretary; Geo. Kirkwood, treasurer; Virgilus Garbarini, outside sentinel; Thos. Joy, inside sentinel; George Gordon, R. C. Rust and Harrey Clark, trustees. After the installation refreshments were served in the banquet hall.

Baseball Games

Last Sunday the Amador City baseball team went to Mokelumne Hill to cross bats with the team there. The county boys did not show up in their usual good form, and were trimmed in good style by the Hill boys, the score at the end of the game being 21 to 4, this being the most one-sided game played this season.

The Valley Springs team made their first appearance in this county last Sunday going to Sutter Creek to meet the nine there. The Sutter boys defeated the visitors by the score of 8 to 6.

Miss Margaret Michel came up Sunday from San Francisco, and will spend her two weeks' vacation with her sister, Mrs H. S. Tallon. Miss Michel is employed in Hale's department store in San Francisco, where she has been engaged for the past seven years. She has charge of the art department.

Mr and Mrs George Dornan returned last evening from their honeymoon, which was spent mostly in San Francisco. They will take up their residence for the time being at the Payne residence on upper Main street. Mr Dornan will resume his duties at the National hotel.

FOR SALE.—A lot of household furniture, consisting of bedroom, parlor, dining room and kitchen set, including stove, all practically new; also a nice refrigerator. Will be sold cheap. Apply to Mrs E. Hudson, Peek's addition.

STILL IN THE FRONT

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitutional and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer on Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Austrian Miners in Justice Court

The justice court at Mokelumne Hill was occupied Tuesday with a criminal case from Gwin mine, that aroused considerable interest, and called three legal lights from San Andreas, the district attorney, John Hancock and Will Dower. The affair seems to have arisen from a sudden impulse of patriotism on the part of certain Austrian miners at the Gwin mine.

It appears that for some time matters, have been in rather an unsatisfactory condition at the mine, and the management had seriously contemplated closing down the works. But on the 3rd of July a bunch of rich rock was struck which had the possibilities of causing improved conditions. The men had been promised a holiday for the Fourth, but the superintendent was anxious to know something more of this new strike so he asked the foreman to take a man down into the mine, put in a shot or two and see what would result.

The foreman took an Austrian named Andrew Centrich with him, and in the afternoon went down and put in a couple of holes, spending some two or three hours in the mine and bringing up some of the rock. The fact that one of the men had worked on a holiday seems to have angered the other Austrians and they threatened to "fix" the man who did it. That night it appears, two Austrians went to the sleeping room of Centrich, and calling him out administered a severe beating. A complaint was sworn out, and a warrant issued for the arrest of Andrew Centrich and Chris Lucich as the guilty parties. Superintendent McClure took an active interest in the matter, and employed John Hancock to assist the district attorney in prosecuting the case. The case was set for trial Tuesday morning, but at that time the defendants decided that they also desired counsel and sent for Will Dower. The case was further continued till Thursday of next week. —Prospect.

James Hay, foreman of the Smelter at Campo Seco recently received a bad burn from molten copper. The copper was being drawn from the furnace and got beyond the control of the men who were attending to the work. The flow is controlled by the use of clay, but for some reason this refused to work. Mr Hay went to the assistance of the men, and in some way the stream of molten metal was directed against one of his thighs inflicting a terrible burn. —Citizen.

The Calaveras County Bank has become the owner of the Angels Iron Works plant located at Altaville and the branch at Jamestown. The whole property was sold last week by M. A. Shepard as commissioner, in a foreclosure suit. The Altaville plant was bid in for $14,000 and the Jamestown plant brought $2000. —Citizen

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, hang-on chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (entailing inflammation of stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of prostrated (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scurfous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

ARTISTS' BLUNDERS.

A Procession of Monks That Adam and Eve Enjoyed.

Among the most amusing "breaks" by artists is a landscape by Turner in which a rainbow is depicted behind the sun. This occasioned almost as much humorous comment in English art circles as did the slip of Constant, the great French artist, who in his portrait of Queen Victoria painted the ribbon of the Order of the Garter the wrong color.

A picture of Adam and Eve in the garden of Eden hung in the gallery of the Gesu, in Lisbon, represents the first couple as watching a procession of monks.

In the famous galleries at Antwerp are certain pictures of old masters in which the jumble of ideas is as remarkable as the technique is fine. In one picture of heaven the archangels are armed with bows and arrows, and in a celebrated painting of "The Murder of the Innocents" the massacre is represented as taking place in a city of Holland. The parents of the children are stout burghers, the Roman soldiers are Dutch policemen armed with muskets, and the innocent infants are transformed into solid schoolboys in bulgy woolen trousers and jackets and hobnailed shoes.

SOMNAMBULISM.

Some of the Curious Things Done by Sleepwalkers.

Many years ago an archbishop of Bordeaux attested the case of a young ecclesiastic who was in the habit of getting up during the night in a state of somnambulism and, taking pen, ink and paper, composing and writing his sermons. When he finished one page he would read and correct it. In order to ascertain whether the somnambulist made use of his eyes the archbishop held a piece of pasteboard under his chin to prevent his seeing the paper upon which he was writing, but he continued to write on without being in the least inconvenienced.

It is related of Negretti, a sleepwalker, that he would sometimes carry a lighted candle, as if to give him light in his employment, but on a bottle being substituted he took it and carried it without apparently noticing the difference.

Another somnambulist would dress in his sleep and go to the cellar, where it was pitch dark, and draw wine from the cask without walking into anything and without spilling a drop of the wine, but if he happened to awake in the cellar he had great difficulty in groping his way out.—Exchange.

Another Kind.

When Johnny Hobbs left his home up among the New Hampshire hills to visit his grandmother in Worcester, Mass., he was cautioned by his mother that he would find things in the city strangely different from those at home.

Johnny arrived in the early afternoon, and long before tea time his grandmother, who lived most simply, told him to run out to the pantry and get a bowl of milk which she had left there "for a hungry boy."

A moment later she followed him and, to her amazement, beheld her grandson bravely at work on a bowl of spearmint tea which she had forgetfully put in the place where she had told him to find the milk.

"Why, child," she cried, seizing the bowl from poor Johnny, "don't you know this isn't milk?"

"I—I knew it wasn't like Hillbury milk," stammered Johnny, with a final gulp, "but I thought maybe it was the kind folks had in Worcester."

A Musical Spider.

The extraordinary musical sensitiveness of spiders has several times been proved. Every one has heard of Pelisson's spider. Consoler of the unfortunate prisoner, it perished because it listened too closely to the captive's violin. The jailer saw it and crushed it brutally. Gretry, the composer, speaks of a favorite spider which descended, along its thread upon his piano as soon as he played it. When giving recitals at Brussels Rubinstein saw a large spider issue from the floor of the platform and listen to the music. He gave three concerts at the same hall, and on each occasion the spider appeared. —Paris Revue.

Sailing Clubs.

The first sailing club was probably the Cork Harbor Water club, now known as the Royal Cork Yacht club, established in the year 1720. The vessels were small, and from that period until early in the nineteenth century yachting developed but slowly. In 1812 the Cowes Yacht club was founded with some fifty-five yachtsmen. Since that date yachting associations have rapidly grown in numbers and strength all over Europe and America. —New York American.

TIME AT THE POLES.

It is Practically Any Hour of the Day You Please.

Those who are conversant with the use of globes know that all the meridians of longitude starting from the equator converge toward and meet at the poles. They know, too, that longitude signifies time and that difference of longitude is difference in time. They know very well that when it is noon in London it is about 7 o'clock in the morning in Boston, and that when it is noon in San Francisco it is about a quarter past 3 in the afternoon in New York.

Now, as the meridian of London extends to the north pole, it necessarily ensues that when it is noon in the English capital it must also be noon at the north pole. In a similar manner when it is noon at Boston, or in San Francisco, or at Pekin, or any other place situated in the northern hemisphere, it follows that it must also be noon at the pole, because all the meridians of those places unite at the north pole. Therefore it is noon all day long at the pole.

Thus there is an entire absence of time at the pole. But it would be just as correct to say that it is a place where there is a preponderance of time, for it is practically any time of day during the whole twenty-four hours or, indeed, through the year. In fact, a resident at the north pole could make it any time of day he might choose to select, with the consciousness that it would be the right time.

A POET'S DIET.

Byron's Strenuous Efforts to Keep Himself From Getting Fat.

"You mention Browning's idea that starvation was the cure for all the ills of the flesh—his own, at any rate," says a correspondent. "Browning was not the only poet with peculiar views on the subject. One of Byron's chief fears was that of becoming fat, and to avoid it he often resorted to extraordinary systems of diet. At Athens he lived mainly on rice and vinegar and water. Later he confined himself to six biscuits a day and tea. In 1816 he had so restricted his diet that he was obliged to keep down hunger by chewing mastic and tobacco. 'Don Juan' was 'written on gin and water.'"

Byron, it has been pointed out, was one of those foredoomed by their constitutions to fatness in middle life, whether they eat much or little, and his victory over nature in this respect—for he succeeded in reducing himself by these violent methods—has been quoted as one of the most remarkable achievements of the human will, considering all the circumstances. It must have been bitter to him to see such a man as Beau Brummel, who ate and drank freely and took no exercise, retaining without an effort all the elegance of figure that was his greatest gift. No wonder Byron's was the poetry of gloom.—London News.

Tea Table Etiquette.

A hundred years or more ago there was a quaint tea table etiquette. It was considered a lack of courtesy to take much cream or sugar in one's tea. Etiquette demanded that the tea should be tasted from the spoon and that the hostess should then inquire, "Is your tea agreeable?" Modern women would be shocked by a fashionable lady of those days who cooled her tea with her breath, yet Young wrote of a certain bewildering Lady Betty:

Her two red lips affected zephyrs blow To cool the Bohem and inflame the beau. While one white finger and a thumb conspire To lift the cup and make the world admire.

A City and Its Press.

In some respects a modern city resembles a vast commercial house. In commerce advertisement is the secret of success, and the most successful coadjutors of the municipality in the development and puffing of a capital are the newspapers. And here Berlin is lacking. Her press is on a hopelessly low level, impoverished, without enterprise, under the thumb of the authorities. In London, New York and Paris the press has a voice in the running of the city.—London Outlook.

RULING WORK DONE AT LEDGER OFFICE

The Ledger office has recently added to its equipment a

RULING MACHINE

The only machine of the kind in this section. It is intended to make the faint blue, red or any other color lines such as appear on blank record books, billheads, letterheads, mining reports. Such work has heretofore been sent out of the county. With this machine we are prepared to do every description of ruling work on any sized sheet up to 36 inches wide, as neatly and cheaply as the same can be done elsewhere.

We especially solicit work of this character from mining and other corporations.

Surgery in a Vacuum.—Magnetization Weight.—Radium's Projectiles.—A Great Electric Machine.—Book Sterilizing.—Visibility of Lights.—The Smallest Brain.—Cancer Spots.—Swelled Iron.—A Wonder Automaton.

In his new method of operating on the organs of the chest, Prof. Ernest Sauerbruch, of the University of Marburg, incloses part of the body in a cabinet from which the air has been partially withdrawn. The air in the lungs is lighter than that outside, under normal conditions, and when the surgeon exposes the lungs the increased pressure tends to flatten them, with great risk of fatal collapse. By operating in a partial vacuum, added pressure is avoided. The patient breathes the outer air as usual, and there is no disturbance of the ordinary balance between internal and external pressure. The new plan has been very successful in the twelve cases in which it has been tried.

Magnetization proves to have a measurable effect on weight. The influence has been tested at a number of stations in the United States and Canada, the magnet being pointed in various directions, and the special balance used being free from magnetic material. When the south pole of the magnet was to the north the weight was about 1 part in 1,000,000 more than when the position was reversed. In regions of magnetic disturbance the difference was greater, and exceeded 1 part in 100,000. The increase in weight on magnetizing a metal seemed of the order of 1 part in 1,000,000.

The alpha particle of radioactive matter travels about 3 inches according to Prof. Rutherford, its average speed being 6,000 miles a second. Its path is marked by extraordinary violence, and about 100,000 molecules are broken up, giving rise to much heat, and producing positively and negatively charged ions in the process.

The largest static electric machine ever built is owned by a New York physician, and is 6 feet high over all, 7 feet long, and 4 feet wide, weighing 650 pounds. It has 40 glass discs, each 40 inches in diameter, of which 20 revolve while the others remain stationary. It is driven by an electric motor of one-quarter horsepower, being first excited by a small auxiliary hand machine, and at full speed may yield a spark 30 inches long and $\frac{3}{4}$ inch in diameter. To fully excite the huge machine requires from 5 to 10 minutes, the charge, however, being retained for as much as 12 to 15 hours.

The new sterilizing oven of M. Berlioz, a Frenchman, is designed for treating books and other easily damaged articles that do not admit of baking in an ordinary oven for destroying disease germs. It has a device for the evaporation of aldehydes, and, at atmospheric pressure and below boiling point, it completely sterilizes such objects as closed books, without the least effect upon the paper or covers. Delicate bindings may be protected by a wrapper. A volume of 1300 pages had been soiled with pus and fecal matter as far as the inner margin, but it was completely sterilized in 2 hours at a temperature of less than 200 degrees F.

Red lights have been proven to be visible to a greater distance than green. In recent tests on a clear dark night, a red light of 1 candle-power was clearly discernible at 1 mile; one of 3 candle-power at 2 miles; 10 candle-power, through a binocular, at 4 miles; and 33 candle-power, at 5 miles. On an exceptionally clear night, a white light of 3.2 candle-power could be distinguished at 3 miles; 17.2 candle-power, at 5 miles.

A healthy, regularly-formed brain of 24 ounces, scarcely half of the normal average seems to have been the smallest ever recorded for an adult. It was recently found in Daniel Ryan, a New York coachman, who died suddenly at the age of 46.

The theory that some houses, or some parts of a town, may be cancer-infected seems to be supported by evidence collected by Dr. Fillaissier, a French physician. One of the accused houses has been recorded at Vouziers, and in this building, between 1870 and 1875, a man, his wife, father-in-law and servant died of cancer of different parts of the body. In one town, in 1890, a street 500 feet long had 21 cases in 17 of its 54 houses. In the little community of Saint Sylvestre, Corneilles, between 1889 and 1887, there were 11 fatal cases, 8 of the stomach, and the water supply was suspected as the source. A cancer epidemic of Oyonnax, a town of 500 houses and 4500 inhabitants, was traced to the advent of a cancerous woman lodger in 1886. Two lodgers in the same house developed the disease in 1888 and 1890, and two neighbors accustomed to drink from a stream into which the first woman's soiled dressings were thrown also became infected. In 1892 the town was having 3 or 4 new cases yearly.

The increase of volume from the heating and cooling of cast-iron has been the subject of many tests, and it has been shown that the swelling may amount to as much as 40 per cent. After heating in a gas furnace 27 times, the highest temperature reached being 1450 degrees F., a bar originally one inch square and 14.8 inches long was found to have grown to 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches square and 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches long. This effect is suggested as an explanation of the trouble given by cast-iron fittings for superheated steam, which produces the same alternate heating and cooling.

An automatic machine capable of threading 1,000 needles per minute is a mechanical marvel of a Swiss factory. The operation includes picking up the needle, propelling to the proper position, tying a knot, cutting the thread, and returning the needle to its assigned resting place.

LEARNING TO SWIM.

The Fat Man Who Was a Model of Patience and Perseverance.

Persistence in undertaking is a laudable virtue, but it can be a bit overdone sometimes, as in a case described by Y. L. Molloy in "Our Autumn Holiday on French Rivers." Mr. Molloy and his friends, longing for a good dive, went to a swimming school on an island in the Seine. They donned their rented costumes and were preparing for the plunge when a man with ropes came along and insisted on tying them about their waists. It was according to police regulations, and although they made an indignant protest, they were obliged to submit.

While we were dressing, says Mr. Molloy, we asked the two swimming masters for an extra towel.

"Pardon," they replied, "we must attend to our monsieur."

Then we saw that there had come upon the platform a short and absurdly fat man dressed in bathing costume, swimming sandals and oiled cap.

"Let's see him go in," said we. "What a splash he'll make!"

The swimming masters received the new arrival at the middle of the platform. There he balanced himself on his stomach on a wooden stump two feet high. The masters seized him by his hands and feet and with slow and deliberate movements made him strike out with the action of swimming. They kept this up for a quarter of an hour, and the perspiration rolled off him in great drops.

"He'll be awfully hot to go into the water after that," said I.

But he did not go into the water. The swimming lesson over, he moved toward the dressing room, saying:

"I have done better today."

"Ah, yes," answered one of the masters. "Your progress is admirable."

The fat man beamed with complaisance and went in to dress.

I called the swimming masters aside.

"Does 'our monsieur' practice often like that? He must have great perseverance."

"Perseverance! He has worked like this for five years, and he has never been in the water!"

SIGN OF A BEATEN MAN.

Runner Who Looks Behind Almost Sure to Lose the Race.

"There are many more good distance runners now than in my days," said an old time champion after watching a three mile scratch race at the New York Athletic club games. "But the habits of the runners have not changed any, for I noticed one little trick in the race that bore the significance that used to attach to it."

"To the casual onlooker there was nothing to choose between the two leaders when they were beginning the last quarter of a mile. Right from the crack of the pistol they were running almost stride for stride with the low, graceful, easy action of the real long distance runner."

"Neither had called into use the reserve power which must be utilized in the final sprint for victory when they turned into the stretch for the final lap. Then one of them slightly turned his head to see where the third man was."

"That man is beaten," was the thought which occurred to me at once, and it proved true, as always, for when the dash for the finish began he allowed his rival to get a lead of five yards before going after him in earnest pursuit."

"From that point to the finish there was no perceptible difference in the speed of the men, but the man who had turned his head to make sure that he would get second place, instead of bending every energy to win, of course landed where his thoughts placed him."—New York Sun.

The Gun Barrels Grew.

In the early days in the northwest, when the Hudson Bay company laid the foundations of great fortunes by trade with the savages and a gun paid for as many beaver skins as would reach to the muzzle of it, the skins packed flat and the gun held upright, it was alleged that the barrel of the weapon grew and grew with each successive year until the Indian, after he had bought it with the peltry, had to borrow a file and cut off a foot of useless metal.

Domestic Bliss.

Wife—I have about made up my mind, John, that when I married you I married a fool. Husband—That reminds me of a remark you made just before we were married. You remember that you said it would be hard to find two people more alike than you and I.

His Classy Eye.

Doctor—I diagnose all sickness from the patient's eyes. Now, your right eye tells me that your kidneys are affected. Patient—Excuse me, doctor, but my right is a glass eye.—Moody's Magazine.

Simple.

Lawyer (at the theater on the first night)—I can't imagine how the piece can be drawn out into five acts. Author—Oh, that is very simple. In the first act, you see, the hero gets into a lawsuit.

Chance For Imagination.

Newspaper men were to be excluded from a famous trial. "That's good," one of them remarked. "I hate to be hampered by facts in writing up a case of this kind."—Exchange.

The Wife Did It All.

Hewitt—Couldn't you get the person you called up by telephone? Jewitt—Oh, yes, Hewitt—But I didn't hear you say anything. Jewitt—It was my wife I called.—New York Press.

REPUBLICAN HARMONY.

The outlook favors the utmost harmony and good feeling among the republicans of Amador county in the political campaign now opening. We see nothing ahead that should cause the slightest break in the excellent feeling that now prevails within the party ranks. With the strong republican majority, and with the exercise of reasonable care in the selection of candidates, republicans should elect every man on the local ticket this fall, and also give a good majority for the presidential and other party nominees. Attempts will no doubt be made to sow discord, but republicans should have sense enough to know that such tactics are usually the work of the opposition, and should frown them down wherever and whenever they show front. The local officers to be elected this year are superior judge and three supervisors—one in each of the following townships, one, two and four. An assemblyman must also be elected for this district, which includes within its territorial embrace the counties of Calaveras, Alpine and Mono, as well as Amador. It is true, that never in the past history of this county has there been such an opportunity presented of serving the interests of the people generally by the passage of wholesome changes in the laws as at the present time. The legislative enactments specially affecting this county of late years have been freighted with more harm than good. The representative that forces a change to the opposite tack will be hailed as a benefactor indeed. The district is strongly republican, and the candidate of that party should have no trouble in carrying it by a decisive majority, especially as the assemblyman elected will have a vote in the election of a United States senator to succeed George C. Perkins, whose term expires March 3, 1909.

But the interest in local affairs will center mainly around the election of the three supervisors. A change in the complexion of the board is highly important at this juncture, as the initial step toward breaking up the clique of politicians who endeavor to run things, not on a basis of justice and right, but according to their narrow-minded prejudices. The people of the county must be well aware that unless a man is prepared to bow before the dictates of the ring he is subject to every species of petty annoyance at the hands of those who are entrusted with the duty of looking after the public business. When favoritism and personal prejudices are permitted to influence the transaction of the people's business, whether in the interest of one political party or a clique composed of both parties, the fullness of time has surely arrived for citizens, irrespective of party affiliations, to take a hand to terminate such a condition of affairs. We have no hesitation in saying that the local government has never presented a more deplorable aspect in this respect than under the existing regime. It is not possible to strike at the root of the evil until the general election of county officers two years hence. But some of the offshoots may at least be nipped off, preparatory to a more thorough uprooting when the opportunity presents. The Ledger has full confidence in the integrity and sound judgment of Amador's citizens. When abuses are clearly and unmistakably pointed out, they will hardly fail to respond to the higher demands of true citizenship, as against appeals of partizanship or prejudice.

Steps will be taken to present the issues before the people in the coming campaign in a manner that will throw light on the methods pursued to maintain a small coterie of office holders in power. The official records should be used to illustrate the various points. This is not merely to show the voters the undercurrents which have been in operation for many years, and which have brought about the existing conditions, and lead them to vote advisedly at the coming election; but more important still, it will set the people to thinking, and lead to intelligent action in the interest of the whole people at the election two years from now, when the break-up of the ruling clique will be the issue at stake.

Musical at Mrs. Kay's.

Last evening about thirty invited friends gathered at Mrs. Kay's residence and were entertained by a musical program, which had been arranged by Mrs. Kay. The front porch answered for the stage, it having been decorated with Japanese lanterns and American flags. The seats were placed in the garden. The following interesting program was rendered: Chorus, "Come to the Land of Bohemia;" musical selection, Mrs. Tom Hedgepeth; song and dance, "San Antonio," Thelma Kay; instrumental, Mrs. Hedgepeth; musical comedy, "Old Maids' Tea Party," composed of Mrs. W. Penry, Mrs. W. Caldwell, Mrs. S. Kay, Misses Amy Clark, Ethel Lemoine and Minnie Axelrod; duet, "Dusky Maiden" the Misses Axelrod; piano duet, Ernest Spagnoli and Mrs. Kay; song and dance, "Honey Boy," Thelma Kay; vocal solo, "Sweet, Sweet Love," Ethel Lemoine; song and dance, Jerome Glukfeld; jig, Z. Axelrod; vocal solo, "Love me and the world is mine," Mrs. Sadie Kay; songs and dances, Misses Axelrod. The special feature of the evening were the songs and dances by the Misses Axelrod, and the old maids' tea party, which afforded great amusement. After the program refreshments were served, and dancing indulged in.

Attempted Suicide.

Last Saturday evening, while dependent over the loss of considerable money, and because of the sickness of his wife, Jim Surface of Ione, took four ounces of laudanum at his home there. It is said he had been drinking for some time, and this more than anything is the reason that he survived the poison.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES.

At Preston School of Industry.

On Saturday the new assembly hall at the Preston school of industry was dedicated in the presence of Governor Gillett, the officers of the institution, and other officials. The train bearing the governor and his party reached Ione about two in the afternoon. It was about three when the visitors and boys had gathered in the large assembly hall. About eight hundred people were present, including over three hundred boys. Chas. H. Dutton, president of the board of trustees, acted as president of the day. The introductory address was made by Governor Gillett, while interesting and instructive talks to the boys were made by Judge Murasky of the juvenile court of San Francisco, Judge Wilbur of the juvenile court of Los Angeles, Judge Hughes of the juvenile court of Sacramento, and by Judge Cook of the superior court of San Francisco, who took the place of A. Caminetti, who was unable to be present. Several vocal selections were heard from S. Homer Hanley, while the school band entertained the audience during the interims. The closing address was made by Monsignor Capel. At the close of the exercises the band gathered on the lawn and played several selections. Supper was served in the gymnasium, and in the officers' dining room, after which the visitors prepared to depart, the trains leaving Ione about eight o'clock.

Some eighteen months ago the idea of building an assembly hall was first conceived by the trustees. Plans were drawn and a miniature made therefrom by the boys. The trustees asked the legislature to give $15,000 with which to erect the building according to the plans. They promised that all the work would be done by the boys. The money was voted and work was commenced shortly afterward. From the time that the ground was broken the boys of the school have done all the work, even to shaping the crude iron, and making the concrete blocks of which the building is made. The main floor has a seating capacity of six hundred. In the basement a complete gymnasium will be fitted up. This is the first building at any of the state institutions to be erected entirely by the inmates.

Baseball—Ione vs. Jackson.

Last Sunday the Jackson baseball team went to Ione to play a game with the boys there. All in all it was the poorest exhibition of baseball played this season by the big teams of the county on both sides. Jackson was the first to the bat, and in that inning piled up four runs. Then the Ione boys got three in quick order, but the Jackson boys kept piling up more runs, until they had eight to their credit. The grand stand play of the day was a home run knocked over left fielder's head by Bagley of Ione. The bases were all full at the time, so his hit brought in four runs for Ione. After that the Ione boys were not able to reach home plate, though it looked very dubious for awhile, when all the bases were filled. The score at the end of the game stood 7 to 11 in favor of Jackson.

Amador Boys in Drilling Contest in Arizona.

A correspondent writing from Gold-rivers, Arizona, says: I take pleasure in sending you a few lines from this little town in regard to some of the Amador boys, who are working here. On the 3d of July, A. Gillick and A. Gagliardo went from here to Kingman, under the direction of J. Oneto, to take part in the drilling contest there on the 4th. The two Amador men succeeded in capturing the first prize, with the extraordinary margin of ten inches to spare. They drilled a hole 35 inches deep. Three other teams contested, drilling 20, 24 and 25 inches respectively. The two handy Andies of Amador county managed to put down the deepest hole ever drilled in the blue syenite in Kingman in the short space of time allotted for the test.

Summons.

In the superior court of the state of California, in and for Amador county. Emma Wilton, plaintiff, vs. William Wilton, defendant.

Action brought in the superior court of the state of California, in and for Amador county, and the complaint filed in the office of the clerk of said Amador county.

WM. G. SNYDER,
Attorney for plaintiff.

The people of the state of California send greeting to William Wilton defendant.

You are hereby directed to appear and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the superior court of the state of California, in and for Amador county, within ten days after the service on you of this Summons—if served within this county; or within thirty days if served elsewhere.

And you are hereby notified that, unless the defendant so appears and answers, the plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint as arising upon contract, or will apply to the court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the superior court of the state of California, in and for Amador county, this 21st day of May A. D. 1908.

J. R. HUBERTY,
Clerk.
